Frank West Found

Frank West, who pitched one game for Boston in 1894, has been found by Jack Dougherty. For this Jack captures the October Find of the Month award.

We had listed West as being born in Wilmerding, Pennsylvania. Jack had searched the cemeteries of Wilmerding and had been unable to locate him. Then Jack found a note in a Lancaster newspaper of the 1890s that West had married a girl from Johnstown. So Jack decided to check Johnstown cemeteries and there was West, who had actually died in Wilmerding. Jack got a copy of the obituary which confirmed that West was indeed our ballplayer. Jack was also able to obtain a copy of the marriage license which showed that West was born in Johnstown. Great work!

1995 Rookies

You will find attached the list of 1995 rookies. There were 247 total plus one non-playing manager, making 1995 the largest class of rookies of any year except 1884. And I thought replacement players would give us trouble. Thanks to Pete Palmer, Jack Smalling, and Tom Hufford for helping to compile the rookie list.

The oldest rookie was Ron Rightnowar who was 30 and the youngest was Karim Garcia, who debuted at 19, making him 1995's only teenager. Considering the number of rookies we had, there were remarkably few who were related to other major league players. Aside from the Thobe brothers, who debuted 6 days apart, there was Carlos Perez, brother of Pascual and Melido, David Bell, son of Buddy and grandson of Gus, Alan Benes, brother of Andy, and Jamie McAndrew, son of Jim.

There were several interesting names among the rookies. We had two 13 letter last names, tying the major league record, with Todd Hollandsworth and Steve Wojciechowski. Wojciechowski and Grudzielanek can also join anyone's all easy-to-spell team. Speaking of spelling, Arquimedez Pozo's first name scores 31 points on a Scrabble board, far outdistancing the previous record holder, Alozjy Bejma. (Isn't it amazing what you can learn from this newsletter?) We had two players named after actors, Paul Douglas Creek and Chad Everett Fonville, one player named after a hockey player, Derek Sanderson Jeter, and one player named after one of our biographical committee members, David Vincent Hajek. (If Rich and Barbara Topp had a boy, I'm sure that little Joseph Simenic Topp would grow up to be a major leaguer.) Finally, we have my favorite name, Ugueth Urtain Urbina, the first player with the initials UUU. Let's see. If he married actress Mimi Rogers.....

Town Names

Cliff Otto has helped verify the proper names of some of the towns on our database. He suggests some useful World Wide Web pages:

http://www.usps.gov/ncsc/lookups/lookup/ctystzip.html
http://wings.buffalo.edu/geogw
http://www.state.ky.us/nasire/NASIREhome.html

The first is a zip code lookup, the second is a geographic name server, and the third has links to state offices for various states. If there are any towns you can't find, Cliff can check them at the Library of Congress.

Greg Harris

On September 28, Greg Harris of the Montreal Expos pitched both right-handed and left-handed in the 9th inning of a game against Cincinnati. My question to you all is: Should we list Harris as a switch-pitcher ala Tony Mullane? Or should we only list someone that way if they do it on a consistent basis?

Henry Jones

Pete Morris sends along the information that Henry Jones' marriage license lists his birth as Pennsylvania, while his death certificate lists it as New York State. His parents were Henry T. Jones and Louisa (nee Wolters) if anyone can track down a birth record.

Who Do You Believe?

I recently received a letter from Gerard Scala's son which said, "My father passed away on 12/14/1993 at approximately 7:30 PM at his residence 3383 Garrison Circle, Abingdon, Md. However, his death certificate said that he died at Fallston General Hospital in Fallston, Maryland. Which source should we accept?

An Offer You Can't Refuse

Bill Deane, P.O. Box 47, Fly Creek, New York 13337 (607-547-5786) is an accomplished researcher who lives four miles from Cooperstown. He is willing to do research at the National Baseball Library and Archive for people for whom a trip to Cooperstown is impractical or inconvenient. Contact Bill for details.

The Adams Mystery

Cliff Kachline has cleared up the mystery of William James Irvin Adams. Cliff heard from Adams' son who confirmed that he did play in St. Louis in 1912-13, Pittsburgh in 1914, and Philadelphia in 1918-19. The son also advised that Adams' correct name is James Irvin Adams and that William was added by a sportswriter. Thanks to Cliff for tracking this down.

Keeping Current With Mr. Curren

Joe Simenic sent in the following clues regarding Peter Curren, who we list as playing three games with the 1876 Philadelphia Athletics and having a Baltimore birth.

Curren made his debut September 12 in Philadelphia in a game against Cincinnati. In John Tattersall's booklet The First Season - 1876, a newspaper account of the game said, "The Athletics were strengthened on this occasion by the engagement of a new catcher - Curran - formerly the third baseman of the San Francisco nine."

In Fred Lange's book History of Baseball in California and Pacific Coast Leagues, there is a photograph of the San Francisco baseball club for 1875. One of the players is identified as J. Curren. Perhaps California is the place to look for this guy.

There Is No Joyce in Mudville

Joe Simenic and Richard Topp have been looking into the case of Joyce, the mysterious player who played with Washington in 1886. In fact, he is so mysterious that he becomes our October Mystery of the Month. Joe found a note that Joyce was an old-time Washington player who was apparently working for the Washington team. He entered the game and grounded weakly to shortstop in his only at bat.

Joe and Bob Davids found obituaries for George W. Joyce, who died in Washington in 1895. George had played for the old Washington Nationals in 1869 and would have been 41 years old in 1886. Could this be the player we are seeking? The game was played August 14, 1886 in Philadelphia. Perhaps the Philadelphia papers might yield a further clue.
