Madison Mallards

Saturday, June 25

3:30 Meeting - 6:08 Game

Special Guest: Steve Schmidt, Mallard's Owner

It's been too many years since the chapter went to Madison for a Mallards game and Steve Schmidt the owner of the Mallards and three other Northwoods League teams (Green Bay, Kenosha and Wisconsin Rapids) will be our speaker. In addition to owning the Mallards for over 20 years, he is a huge St. Louis Cardinals fan and has stories about that. He played in a minor league game with the old Madison Mad Hatters that also included Ila Borders (I was there). Plus, he's the owner of the infamous Shoe Box (he got a bad rap). Steve will have fun tales to share with us.

Please contact Dennis if you are interested attending but have not registered.

Rethinking Fandom: How to Beat the Sports-Industrial Complex at Its Own Game

With Author Greg Calcaterra

If you find yourself disenchanted with major sports, or you're just tired of the astronomical amount of money involved, Greg Calcaterra's Rethinking Fandom: How to Beat the Sports-Industrial Complex at Its Own Game may be for you. He lays out many examples of the misguided corporate greed and suggests various strategies to fight back, because it's supposed to be fun, right? You'll enjoy the author's tremendous knowledge, wit, and humor as well.

Register in advance for this meeting here. SABR will forward the Zoom info to you. And as we always say, you don't need to read the book to join us.

Keltner Virtual Chapter Meeting with Tom Alesia

Tom Alesia of Madison, author of a new book on Hall of Famer Dave Bancroft, Beauty at Short. Dave Bancroft the Most Unlikely Hall of Famer and His Wild Times in Baseball's First Century was our guest at a virtual chapter meeting on May 26. From three life-size Bancroft cut outs behind Tom to Bancroft memorabilia we had a fast paced, entertaining, and informative 97 minute meeting. Alesia's passion for his subject comes through in person as well as in the book. Why did he write about the "Most Unlikely Hall of Famer?" We heard many interesting stories, from being cut by his first two minor league teams to enshrinement in the Hall of Fame. Tom even defended his Hall of Fame vote questioned by others like Bill James. Where did the moniker Beauty come from and was that what most people called him? He was friends with John McGraw, AAGPBL manager and other tales. He also mentioned the upcoming Bancroft Days. Tom is engaging and very knowledgeable about all things Beauty.

We also talked about his first book published 6 months before Bancroft, Then Garth Became Elvis: A Country Music Writer's Journey with the Stars, 1985-2010, an accumulation of interviews from his career as an entertainment writer. To see more of Alesia's work, visit: www.TomWriteTurns.com

The drawing to win a copy of Tom's new book was won by Dave Heller.

What's Happening with the DockHounds in Oconomowoc?

After following the building of a new team and new ballpark for 10 months, the home opener finally arrived on May 20. It was a success as the Lake Country DockHounds topped the Winnipeg Goldeyes 8-5 in front of a sold out crowd of 3,999. The good news is they will be able to sell beer to their fans this year because they didn't lose the opener! (Sorry)

Speaking of attending a game, we are trying to arrange for a game in July that includes a meeting beforehand. After following the creation of a new team and construction of a new ball yard, this is the ideal way to wrap up the series. For the gathering, we are looking at a tour of the new facility and/or speakers from the organization. Possible weekend dates include Saturdays, July 9 or 23 at 6:05 and Sundays, 10 and 24 at 1:35. Dugout tickets are $13 and they have group areas starting at $20.

An email was sent out earlier this week to determine interest and dates. If you have not had an opportunity to reply but are interested in attending, please email Dennis with the dates you are available. We will keep everyone who expresses interested in the event with updates via email and the July Keltner Hot Corner.

Fond du Lac DockSpiders

Jim Misudek, the General Manager of the Northwoods League Fond du Lac DockSpiders and fellow SABR member reached out to the chapter to see what we could do to work together.

Looking at their weekend schedule, there weren't many days available but he really wants to invite SABRen to Herr-Baker Field. So, he offered us a 50% discount to select games. Visit:

<https://fond-du-lac-dock-spiders.nwltickets.com/SingleGame/Tickets>

- Use code "SABR" to get 50% off box and bleacher seats on select games, 6/13, 6/28, 7/10, 7/27 (Game 1), 7/27 (Game 2), and 8/1.
- When purchasing games listed online, select either box or bleacher seats and when in your cart, type code SABR in the promotions box on the bottom left of your cart.

Thanks Jim, we appreciate the generous offer. We will plan for a 2023 chapter game and more.

Dave Heller 2022 Larry Ritter Book Award Winner

Congratulations to Keltner Chapter member Dave Heller who was named the winner of the 2022 Larry Ritter Book Award for his excellent book Gettysburg Eddie Plank: A Pitcher's Journey to the Hall of Fame.

From SABR's announcement selecting Heller:

Gettysburg Eddie Plank: A Pitcher's Journey to the Hall of Fame, written by Dave Heller and published by McFarland & Co., an interesting and illuminating biography of the 326-win Hall of Fame pitcher whose legend has dimmed with time, is the winner of the 2022 Larry Ritter Book Award.

The award is granted annually by SABR's Deadball Era Committee to the author of the best book about baseball between 1901 and 1919 published during the previous calendar year. The winner's work must demonstrate original research or analysis, a fresh perspective, compelling thesis, impressive insight, accuracy, and clear, graceful prose.

Heller's curiosity was sparked when he viewed Plank's name on a list of 300-game winners and realized that he wanted to know more about the man who helped lead Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics to six American League pennants and three World Series championships. Heller began a passionate quest to answer questions about Plank and his distinguished career. He produced a biography that illuminates the career of one of the Deadball Era's greatest pitchers.

"I looked at all of the 300-game winners in history and I was going down the list realizing that most of these guys, I knew about," Heller said. "Maybe not the 19th century guys, but the 20th century guys, they were either modern and we've seen them on TV or highlights or watched them ourselves, or it was guys like Christy Mathewson or Walter Johnson or Cy Young or Lefty Grove, the kind of names who you know. There's a movie about Grover Alexander, and all these guys are big names."

"Eddie Plank was the one guy among the entire group who I knew who he was, but I didn't really know much about him, anything beyond the basics. And the more I looked into him, the more there were questions about him and things I didn't understand. 'How do I find out more about this guy?'"

Gettysburg Eddie Plank is Heller's fourth book on baseball. He is the digital content manager for Bally Sports Wisconsin and Bally Sports North and worked previously at JSOnline.com, Cincinnati.com and CBSsports.com. He has written for several newspapers including the Washington Post, Milwaukee Journal Sentinel, Detroit Free Press, Philadelphia Daily News and Cincinnati Enquirer. A longtime SABR member, he lives in Whitefish Bay, Wisconsin.

The other finalist included:

- Wahoo Sam Crawford: The King of Sluggers, by Kent Krause (Kodar Publishing)
- Barney Dreyfuss: Pittsburgh's Baseball Titan, by Brian Martin (McFarland & Co.)
- Comeback Pitchers: The Remarkable Careers of Howard Ehmke and Jack Quinn, by Lyle Spatz and Steve Steinberg (University of Nebraska Press)
- Double Plays and Double Crosses: The Black Sox and Baseball in 1920, by Don Zminda (Rowman & Littlefield)

Read Doug Skipper's interview with Dave Heller in the SABR Deadball Era Committee newsletter, here.

This is the second consecutive month that a Keltner Chapter member won a major SABR award following Larry Baldasaro won the SABR Baseball Research Award for his book, Tony Lazzeri Yankee Legend and Baseball Pioneer.

Keltner Book Club
Book Report by Mary Shea

Rethinking Fandom: How to Beat the Sports-Industrial Complex at Its Own Game by Craig Calcaterra

My relationship with baseball? It's complicated. I was born into a Milwaukee Braves family that eventually rooted for the Brewers, but not as much. My mother and her family were big Yankees fans back in the day, but 27 World Championships are too much winning for me, so I became a diehard Cubs fan and remained one for decades. The memories and friendships associated with that fandom are held dear, and winning the World Series in 2016 was amazing. But I've developed into somewhat of a non-practicing Cubs fan, as the full-tilt, no-limit pursuit of income generation at every turn has left me feeling empty, and as my loyalty as a fan has been overexploited. However, the Cubs are not the aberration. I've witnessed worker exploitation from the MLB team that I work for, despite accruing over a billion dollars in net worth while benefiting from a taxpayer-funded stadium. Many would be surprised that the Brewers have been willing to bus employees from Chicago and elsewhere to work concessions at the ballpark rather than increase poverty wages.

If you find yourself disenchanted with major sports, or you're just tired of the astronomical amount of money involved, I highly recommend Rethinking Fandom: How to Beat the Sports-Industrial Complex at Its Own Game. Calcaterra lays out many examples of the misguided corporate greed and fan and taxpayer exploitation that are pervasive in major sports. But there's hope. He also suggests various strategies to fight back, or at least alter your fandom so that supporting a team can be enjoyed rather than endured, as it's supposed to be fun, right? And even if you're not a disgruntled fan, this book is extremely eye-opening. You'll enjoy the author's tremendous knowledge, wit, and humor, and you might even be inspired as you reconsider your relationship with sports.

Here is a link to Calcaterra's website with more info on the book as well as ordering it, only $17.95 or Boswell Books.

You can register in advance for this meeting here.

Happy reading, and enjoy the baseball season!

Get to Know

Get to Know...Paul Tenpenny

Starting with a Braves pennant (he doesn't have the original but another), Tenpenny, became a rabid collector of memorabilia of the Borchert Field Brewers, Milwaukee Braves, and current Milwaukee Brewers. Years of hunting has yielded all kinds of treasures; autographed bats, balls, uniforms, pictures, and baseball cards. There are jerseys from all three generations including the first AA Brewers championship in 1913. Plus, many other items that have led to a display at the Cedarburg History Museum called Treasury of Milwaukee Professional Baseball that runs through October.

Tenpenny favorite
Braves shirt

Paul Tenpenny was born November 7, 1952, to Jack and Lucille Tenpenny in Milwaukee where he grew up attending St Matthews Grade school and Don Bosco High School. He was the last of five siblings which meant the other four thought "he was spoiled."

His baseball life was playing with friends or as Paul said, "Twas not a jock." But he loved the game becoming a big Milwaukee Braves fan thanks to his father since Tenpenny earliest baseball memory is of his dad taking him to a Braves game when he was seven or eight years old. Accompanying his Braves fandom was his favorite ballplayer, Henry Aaron.

After graduating from Bosco, Paul attended the University of Wisconsin Stevens Point where he earned the appropriately named BS degree majoring in Business Administration and Economics. He returned to Milwaukee from central Wisconsin where he had a 28 year career working for Milwaukee County, first the Milwaukee Public Museum and then Milwaukee County Behavioral Health. Following retirement, he worked for the MEARS online auction site that offered unique and quality sports, pop culture, and Americana memorabilia.

Tenpenny is happily married to Laurie nee: Watter who is an ordained Assembly of God minister and a chaplain for the Wisconsin Department of Corrections. Paul has joined Laurie in her prison ministry and they enjoy traveling both domestically and overseas.

Thanks to urging by Bob Buege, he originally joined SABR in 2010 attending the convention in Atlanta. This was one of the better meetings with two fun side trips that were part of the event; Royston, GA, home of Ty Cobb (with a police escort around town), and Greenville, SC for a minor league ballgame at the Red Sox franchise. “But then life interfered,” and Paul did not renew his membership but he stayed close to members and has since rejoined. He’s contemplating going to Baltimore for SABR 50.

Collecting has led to research and vice versa for Paul. Often when researching he would see an interesting item and search for it to make the story more real to him. Or, he would find an interesting item and then research to know more about it. This has led Tenpenny to writing numerous articles on the minor league Brewers many of which were published at borchertfield.com, the online museum of the American Association Milwaukee Brewers, in his series named Vintage Brew.

One of his favorite items is the 1931 Hickey Cup. This was awarded annually to the American Association team with the largest opening day attendance. Paul wrote about the Hickey as part of his Vintage Brew article that concentrated on Bill Veeck's efforts, as the new Brewer's owner in 1942, to win the cup. Of course, Veeck had to make it a big ordeal and the article is a good insight to one of the most unique owners in baseball history.

Several of his articles have been republished in the Keltner Hot Corner, “Doc” Buckner the AA Brewers much loved Black trainer in November 2021, Ken Keltner in December 2021 and Bus Clarkston in April 2022 with more to come. He is currently working on a piece on Eddie Stanky and the Stars of Yesterday (youth) who played at Borchert Field in Milwaukee.

Elsewhere in this Hot Corner we feature an article on the Cedarburg History Museum's Treasury of Milwaukee Professional Baseball which has Tenpenny's items on display; there will be more pictures next month. When asked what is his greatest collecting challenge, he replied, “Finding game bats for AA Brewers is very difficult and now the competition is making it very difficult”

If Paul could have a “time-machine moment” and go back to any baseball event, he would like to return to 1930s and spend days, weeks, or even months with Harry “Doc” Buckner, trainer of the American Association Brewers and a Black baseball star in the early 1900s. “There is so much lost history he must have carried, forever lost to time.”

And, we always we ask for any final words of wisdom and Tenpenny's profound reply was, “We are the holders of historical memories. We need to document and share that history. I endeavor to do that, even if in a very small way.”

Milwaukee Grays Vintage Baseball Club

The Milwaukee Grays Vintage Base Ball Club consist of a group of dedicated individuals who enjoy baseball, history and the outdoors. We are not re-enactors! We play actual baseball but we prefer to play by the rules of 1860. We use wooden bats and lemon peel base balls. Our club has players of all ages and we love to compete. The Grays feature matches scheduled for Saturday or Sunday at Estabrook Park

Dave Heller has been playing vintage base ball for a number of years with the Milwaukee Grays. The contests at Estabrook Park are in front of the beer garden or as Dave says, "You can't miss us - even if you want to, ha ha." For those not familiar with vintage base ball, they play using 1860's rules when the game was two words. Balls caught on a bounce are an out but they don't wear gloves. It's a gentleman's game, yet competitive. They always like to have fans but also people who might want to play. If you would like to enjoy the game as a fan or play, following is their home schedule for the next couple of months.

Baseball Landmarks Research Committee

SABR members comprise a special breed of individuals, drawn to out-of-the-way places to spy an old ballpark, visit a historical marker, or pay their respects at the grave of a late ballplayer. To date, however, there has not been a comprehensive checklist or map to document the staggering array of baseball-related sites located across North America. The Baseball Landmarks Committee will endeavor to fill this need, with the help of SABR membership, to curate the most complete list/map of baseball sites possible.

The initial phase of our project will involve creating a "Baseball Landmarks Project" page and a call for members to help document and verify the initial offering of sites, which have been arranged by state and categorized by type. If you are interested in contributing to this project, please contact a committee leader below.

Follow or post landmarks pictures and info on Twitter @SABRLandmarks

Contacts: For more information, or to get involved, contact a committee leader below:

- John Racanelli (Co-Chair)
- Chris Kamka (Co-Chair)
- Mark Armour (Vice Chair)

Chapter Challenge - As we travel around the state this year (or the country) keep your eyes open for landmarks that can be shared with the Landmarks Research Committee. Pictures are helpful and you can share them on Twitter @SABRLandmarks. How many alone are in the Milwaukee area? Do any of the former ballparks have plaques like the Lloyd Street Park, AAGPBL, etc? Grave sites? (Just saw a posting on the Twitter site with Al Simmon's grave). Statues? What other noted landmarks can we find?

Soon, the committee will have a map of where there are landmarks that we will be able to use in our travels.

Attending SABR 50?

Are you attending SABR 50 in Baltimore? Or are you thinking about going but have questions? Either way, please let Dennis know so we have an idea of Keltner members attending the event or answer your questions. I will be there, finally, after waiting three years to do so.

You can get more information about the convention here.

2022 Chapter Annual Report Ken Keltner Badger State Chapter June 2021 - May 2022

For the year 2021-2022 we saw more of the same meeting by Zoom. Thanks to SABR providing Zoom, we were able to reach members further out in Wisconsin who normally cannot attend meetings as well members nationwide with excellent speaker opportunities. But we did have several opportunities to meet in-person including our first live chapter meeting in April. Our book club remained active as did our monthly newsletter.

Virtual Meetings

- June, 125 Years of Badger State Baseball Cards with Jason Schwartz
- July, New American Association Team and Ballpark in Oconomowoc in 2022 with Tom Kelenic
- September, Dillard Style, Baseball Stories and More with Tim Dillard
- November, Eddie Plank, A Pitchers Journey to the Hall of Fame with author Dave Heller
- January, Marcus Hanel, former Milwaukee Brewers Bullpen Catcher for 21 Years
- February, Joint Meeting with Emil Rothe Chapter featuring Ila Borders, Jasmine Dunston and Sara Sanchez
- March, Buck O'Neil and the Exciting Events Planned at the Negro League Museum with Bob Kendrick
- May, Beauty at Short, Dave Bancroft the Most Unlikely Hall of Famer and His Wild Times in Baseball's First Century with author Dave Alesia

Live and In-person Meetings

The Milwaukee County Park District has beer gardens in several parks and we used those to meet, outside. We originally scheduled an in-person chapter meeting for August but the speaker, Tim Dillard had to back out and, with COVID spiking, we did not reschedule a replacement

- July 2021, Talking Baseball at Southshore Park Beer Garden
- April 2022, first live chapter meeting in 26 months with new Brewer broadcaster Josh Maurer and Brewer Batboy Jake Oakland.

Keltner Book Corner

Mary Shea is the Chair of the Keltner Book Club and continues to select a good variety of books to read.

- June, virtual meeting to discuss Jim Bouton's Ball Four with special guest Mitchell Nathanson the author of Bouton.
- August, at Estabrook Park Beer Garden discussing A Year of Playing Catch with author Ethan Bryan zooming in that culminated in playing catch; including the unique use of two 1940's gloves.
- December, virtual meeting discussing Our Team, the Epic Story of Four Men and the World Series that Changed Baseball with author Luke Epplin.
- March, Virtual meeting to discuss The Baseball 100 by Joe Posnanski as well as a Talking Baseball session

Keltner Hot Corner Newsletters

We continued publishing a monthly newsletter with a variety of features and contributors who helped make a big difference. Some of our coverage included Bob Buege's special monthly feature with 13 bonus chapters that didn't make it into his book Borchert Field. We followed the creation of a new minor league team and their ballpark construction. Profiling Keltner members continued in our Get to Know Series. Plus, we started a monthly trivia contest, Schabowski's Super Stumpers by Rick Schabowski. In addition, we had recaps with recordings of our virtual meetings and SABR news.

Treasury of Milwaukee Professional Baseball

Play Ball - Part One

Yes, it's time for baseball and The Cedarburg History Museum has a great exhibit showcasing America's pastime and its local history from now until October 3rd.

The exhibit contains many photos and memorabilia dealing with the local community as well as game used equipment and autographed items from the American Association Brewers, Milwaukee Braves and the current Milwaukee Brewers. Featured are a game worn jersey from the American Association Champion Milwaukee Brewers 1913 team; an autographed Warren Spahn Jersey as well as Manager Ned Yost's 2007 game jersey which sports a patch celebrating the 25th anniversary of the American League Champion 1982 Brewers. (Yost played on the 1982 team making this a unique piece of history)

See a complete set of single signed baseballs of the 1982 team as well and many cards and signed baseballs from the 1957 Milwaukee Braves. There's a lot more to see so catch it when you can.

June Trivia

Guest Member's Stump the Stumper Questions

After successfully stumping the stumper, Dave Klement submitted 12 trivia questions. Giving Rick a break, we will use six this month and another half dozen in July. This month, Dave has the Babe on his mind.

Whose record did Babe Ruth break for the...

- (1) ... career HR record?
- (2) ... career HR% record?
- (3) ...career RBI record?
- (4) ... career walk record?
- (5) ... career strikeout record?
- (6) ... career SLG% record?

Do you have a baseball trivia question (or 12) to stump the stumper like Dave did? If so, send your brilliance to Rick to see if you can stump him and he'll include it in a future Keltner Hot Corner giving you credit - bragging rights - for your stumper(s).
